

SOUTHERN LAND
DEVELOPMENT CONSULTANTS

Southern Land is a medium sized consultancy with offices throughout New Zealand. We are experiencing consistent growth and are seeking a Senior or Intermediate Planner/ Project Manager to join our team, with the choice of working from any of our offices.

What do we do?

We are currently land development focused, but versatility is one of our strengths and we are keen to break into other areas of work where we have the expertise. For example, we have developed a strong presence in cycle trail design and delivery, including the extremely successful Lake Dunstan Trail. We deliver rural, urban and commercial projects from start to finish, from concept and design, to resource management planning and project management, civil design and engineering to cadastral surveying.

What work will you do?

You'll have the opportunity to develop our planning practice with the support of our multi-disciplinary team of experienced professionals, providing strategic advice on land use options and liaising with Councils and other consultants to get results. You'll advise on resource management policy and processes for rural, commercial or tourism activities, visitor accommodation, subdivisions/ land development, residential/ commercial buildings and District Plan changes and reviews. With involvement in projects from start to finish, you'll liaise with clients and lead delivery of your own projects.

What do we offer?

We offer highly competitive pay rates and a friendly team environment (plus powder days). Located in one of the fastest-growing regions in New Zealand, you will be involved at the forefront of some exciting developments, while living in an area renowned for its natural beauty and outdoors lifestyle.

Who are we looking for?

You'll be a knowledgeable planner with at least five years' NZ planning experience, an aptitude for project management and a desire to develop your own client base. You must have New Zealand residency or a valid New Zealand work visa.
